

XR CLAW SaltGear – High Holding Power with Less Weight

Designed to sit close to the bow. The special design of the fluke prevents the anchor from beating on the bow when parked in the bow roller and the improved anchor shank extends out and clear of the bow before deploying downward. The XR SaltGear comes in the same physical sizes as the famous Bruce anchor, but with reduced weight. The lower weight is important since it is intended to be used on sport fishing boats which require the least amount of weight in the bow as possible. The XR Claw still offers the same physical holding power as the Bruce and is made of AISI 316L Solid Stainless Steel plates (not casted) with a polished mirror finish for the highest quality.
